

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

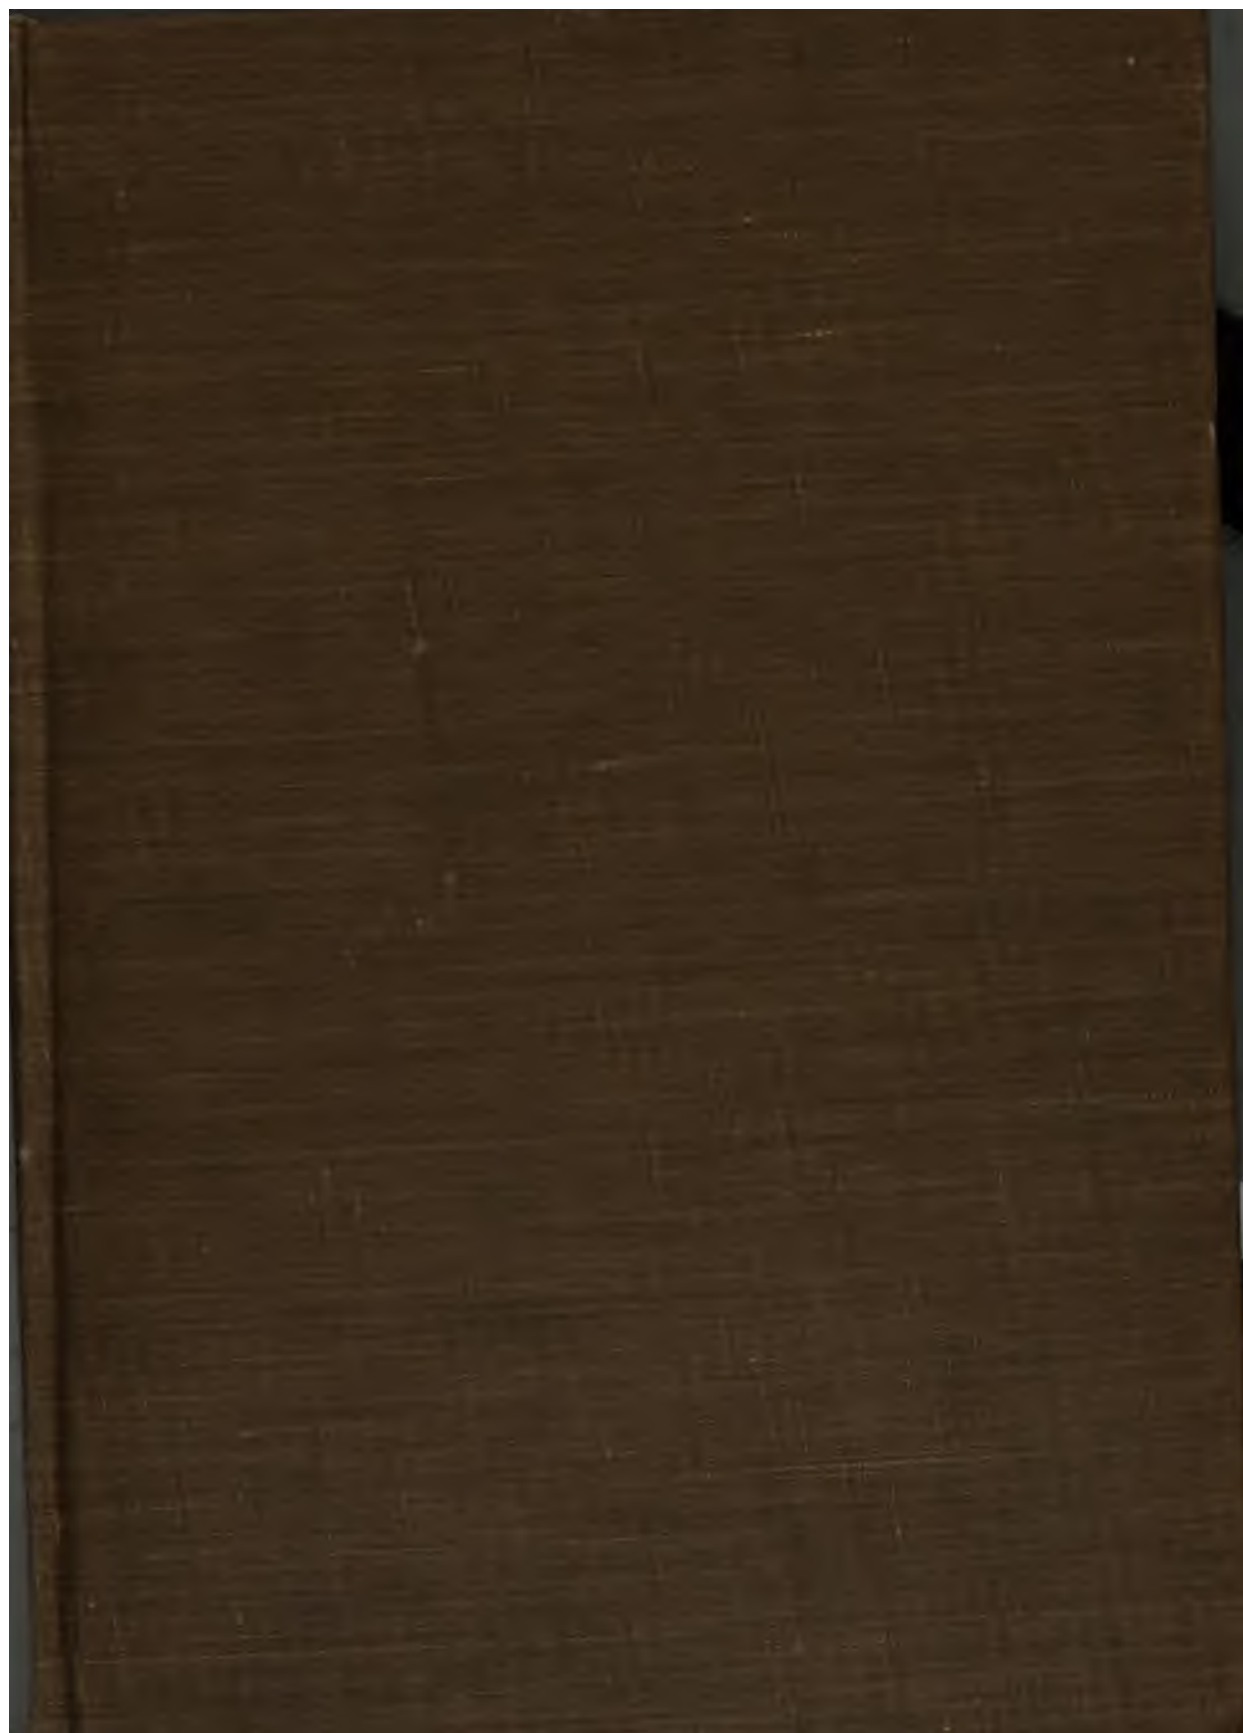

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE.

THE TOWN OF NEWARK saw a century pass by before the first printing press of which any record has been found was set up within its limits. It is true that David Ogden, the distinguished Newark lawyer, published a letter "To the Several Persons claiming under the Indian Purchases" in regard to the adjudicated dispute between the purchasers and the East Jersey Proprietors, which he dated "Newark, February 20, 1767." But this octavo pamphlet of eight pages (seven numbered), of which there is a perhaps unique copy in the Library of Princeton University, has neither title page nor imprint, and the extreme improbability of its being the work of a Newark printer has led to its rejection in this bibliography.

In September, 1776, Hugh Gaine, the New York printer, sent one of his presses over to Newark and there issued seven consecutive Whig numbers of his "New York Gazette." This piece of political double-facedness does not, however, entitle him to the honor of being Newark's first printer, although it gives him the earliest Newark imprint.

He remained in New Jersey but seven weeks; and for the next fifteen years so far as is known there was no press in the city. At last, in 1791, John Woods established an office "Near the Episcopal Church" and in May of that year began the publication of his "Newark Gazette and New Jersey Advertiser." His work as recorded by the sixteen or more imprints bearing his name and listed in the following pages extended from 1791 to 1797, and to him, then, by right of seniority belongs the first place in the long line of Newark printers. Closely following him come Daniel Dodge, Jacob Halsey and Stephen Gould; then, in rapid succession, Matthias Day, John Wallis, the Tuttles and Benjamin Olds, to name only some of the most prominent. It is a list of the publications of these men and their successors that is here presented.

When the project of a bibliography of Newark imprints was first broached it met with strong discouragement, the assertion being made that Newark could lay no claim to bibliographical interest. That Newark strictly speaking has not been a book-making centre is probably undeniable. In pre-Revolutionary days it was too near to New York to make the printer's trade profitable; during the Revolution its proximity to Tory headquarters rendered impossible the existence of a Whig press—and no other would have been tolerated; while in the century that has just closed perhaps more attention has been given to commercial development than to the making of books. These facts, however, make the output of the Newark press all the more interesting.

Historians have begun to realize that the ephemeral productions of a local press, which vanish so rapidly when once their timeliness has passed, are of greater value as mirrors of their day than many of the more pretentious volumes which have been deemed worthier of preservation on library shelves. The trend of historical research is daily calling into requisition the most varied kinds of material, and in this material pamphlets, sermons and addresses, municipal reports, almanacs, newspapers, school catalogues and all the host of minor printed items have their distinct place. The first step toward the intelligent use of such material is to know what there is in existence. This bibliography of Newark imprints was therefore undertaken and carried out in the belief that its value would be second only to that of a bibliography of material relating to Newark. It will be understood, then, that this is not a list of works relating solely to that city, although the large majority of its items closely concern its history. It is a list of works printed or published at Newark. It is, further, a list of only such publications as have been printed in English.

That it is incomplete the compilers are well aware; but they feel that no effort has been spared to make it as complete as possible. The Newark Public Library and the Library of the New Jersey Historical Society were ransacked and the Library of Princeton University was also laid under contribution. Requests for information were sent to all Newark printers and publishers, lawyers, ministers and collectors, and any other individuals who might furnish data. Booksellers' catalogues, secondhand book lists and the standard American bibliographies have all been drawn from. Hunt's more or less correct manuscript "Catalogue of New Jersey Books and Pamphlets" and the "List of New Jersey Books and Pamphlets not in Hunt," both of which bibliographies are on file in the New Jersey Historical Society Library, have been freely used; yet almost every day brings in fresh data. Obviously, to wait for the end would be to postpone publication indefinitely, and it has therefore been thought best to publish the bibliography as it is, with the hope of issuing at some future date at least a supplement, if circumstances warrant.

A few explanations are necessary in regard to the method of entry. The author's name has, as a rule, been omitted from the title and the punctuation therefore slightly altered. Cover titles have been used only where the title page of the copy seen was incomplete or wanting. Where the paging or size or printer's name is omitted, it may be taken for granted that access has not been had to a copy of the item in question. This has been particularly true of all data obtained from secondhand book lists and auction catalogues. Regarding serial publications and departmental documents, the full title of the earliest known issue has been given, and in a note is added all the information obtained. Here insurmountable difficulties were often encountered. It was not possible to get full series of almanacs and newspapers or of Newark departmental reports. It was not even possible to ascertain definitely what reports had been issued by the City Departments, and only those are here named which were found. Efforts to get sets of Insurance and Building and Loan Association literature were so fruitless that they were given up. In the case of serial reports no attempt has been made to follow the slightly varying readings of different years. Books appear under date of their first editions and notice of other editions is there made also, unless the titles of the later editions vary. The size is given according to the A. L. A. standard. An asterisk prefixed to a date indicates that the work has been seen, and usually that it is in the Newark Public Library, while a suffixed asterisk indicates that the book is in the Library of the Historical Society. The letters "n. p." in certain imprints indicate that no printer's name is given or that the volume in question has no pagination. Likewise the letters "v. p." mean "various printers."

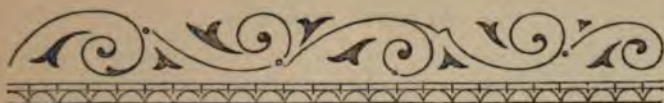

In pioneer work of this kind obligations are great, and for the willing assistance that has generally been given when asked, sincere thanks are here returned. To Miss Emma V. Baldwin of the Brooklyn Public Library, and formerly of the Newark Free Public Library, are due well-earned acknowledgments of her active and efficient co-operation in gathering the material for this list. Invaluable, too, has been the generous aid of Miss Henrietta Palmer, formerly librarian of the New Jersey Historical Society while to the help which Miss Marie F. Wait, Miss Palmer's successor, has been kind enough to give, the compilers are indebted. Thanks are also due to Mr. Noah F. Morrison of Newark for his numerous courtesies, to Mr. William B. Morningstern for his painstaking and valuable assistance, and to Mr. Herbert L. Thowless for his repeated contributions and scholarly aid. No one can touch New Jersey history at any point, bibliographically or otherwise, without coming, as to a last court of appeals, to the Corresponding Secretary of the New Jersey Historical Society, William Nelson, Esq., M. A., of Paterson, N. J. It is regretted that it was not possible to make full use of Mr. Nelson's permission to search his valuable private collection for Newark imprints in time to insert all the results in the body of this book. What does not appear there will be found in the Appendix. The nucleus of the list, however, is taken from his rare "Check List of Issues of the Press of New Jersey" (Paterson, 1899), and his familiarity with early printing has been called on frequently for help over what would have otherwise been an impasse. For his active and unfailing interest, for his indispensable and generous personal aid, and especially for the hospitable courtesy with which he placed his library at the disposal of the writer, most grateful acknowledgment is here made. The free use to which the chapter on the Newark Press in Mr. Joseph Atkinson's "History of Newark" has been put will be evident to all who know that work.

The Appendix contains titles obtained too late for insertion in the body of the book, or of which the date of imprint is unknown to the compilers. Corrections, additions or completions of any kind will be welcomed.

Finally, it should be said that this list, excepting the Appendix, was mainly completed by Mr. Hill before the pressure of official business in a fresh field of labor compelled him to call in assistance to edit the material and see it through the press. The whole credit of undertaking the enterprise and carrying it out is therefore his alone. V. L. C.

1776 [Gaine's] New York Gazette and the Weekly
Mercury. I

NOTE. — Only seven numbers were printed in Newark, as follows : —

1301	Sept. 21, 1776.	Folio.
1302	Sept. 28, 1776.	Quarto.
1303	Oct. 5, 1776.	Quarto.
1304	Oct. 12, 1776.	Quarto.
1305	Oct. 19, 1776.	Quarto.
1306	Oct. 26, 1776.	Quarto.
1307	Nov. 2, 1776.	Quarto.

“ Hugh Gaine was born in Belfast, Ireland, in 1726, and learned his trade there in the office of James Macgee. At the expiration of his apprenticeship he emigrated to New York, where he found employment with James Parker. In 1752 Gaine opened a printing-house of his own, and on August 3 of that year began the publication of ‘The New-York Weekly Mercury,’ and continued the paper under that title until 1770, when he changed it to ‘The New-York Gazette, and the Weekly Mercury.’ Under the latter title it continued to appear until November, 1783, when he ceased its publication. In 1753 he incurred the displeasure of the Assembly on account of publishing an inaccurate report of their proceedings, and was summoned to the bar of the House, where, upon his apologizing, he was reprimanded by the Speaker and released.

“ When the Stamp Act came in force in November, 1765, Gaine, like many other American publishers, suspended the regular issue of his paper. In place of it he put forth a sheet sometimes headed ‘A Patriotic Advertisement,’ and at others ‘No Stamped Paper to be had.’ One other incident in Gaine’s career in connection with his newspaper must be mentioned. It is, I believe, without a parallel in the annals of journalism. At the outbreak of the Revolution Gaine, after a slight leaning toward the American cause, assumed and maintained a strict neutrality; but when it became likely that the British would occupy New York in September, 1776, he sent one of his presses to Newark, and on the 28th of that month began to issue there a quarto newspaper bearing the name and imprint of 'The New-York Gazette and the Weekly Mercury, Printed by Hugh Gaine, at Newark, in East-New-Jersey,' devoted to the Whig cause, at the same time continuing to issue his neutral paper of the same name, from his sign of 'the Bible and Crown,' in Hanover Square. The Newark edition was issued two days earlier than the New York one, but, besides bearing the same name, was numbered in sequence with the earliest issued. This was continued until November 2, making duplicate numbers and two papers of different politics from No. 1301 to 1307. After the battle of Long Island Gaine concluded the American to be the losing side, withdrew from Newark, and gave his paper a British tone which it preserved until its termination." — Hildeburn in Sketches of printers and printing in colonial New York.

This interesting notice is found in number 1304:—

" This paper has now been published in this town four weeks, and sent to the customers, that could be found, as usual. The great and uncommon expense attending the carrying on business at this juncture, obliges the publisher to request those in arrear to discharge their accounts, which will be gratefully acknowledged by

"The publick's humble servant,

"Hugh Gaine."

The Lenox Library possesses the only known file of this curious example of a newspaper published simultaneously on two sides of a question then at the arbitration of the sword.

*1791 Protestant Episcopal Church, Diocese of New Jersey. Proceedings of a Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church, In the State of New-Jersey, Held in Trinity Church, in Newark, June First, Second, Third and Fourth, One Thousand Seven Hundred and Ninety-one. 15 p. O. John Woods. 2

1791 to 1800(?) Woods's Newark Gazette and New-Jersey Advertiser. F. John Woods. 3

NOTE.—A weekly journal, of which the first number was issued on May 13, 1791. It was the earliest newspaper printed in Newark.

The issue for October 2, 1793 (Vol. 3, No. 21), is entitled Woods's Newark Gazette and Paterson Advertiser. In November, 1797, Woods sold out and his name was dropped from the title, the paper being "printed by John H. Williams for the Proprietors." Among these proprietors was probably Jacob Halsey, a Long Island printer and patriot. It is certain that he was the proprietor at the end of the century, carrying on a printing office, bookstore and bindery in connection with the newspaper. He sold the concern about 1800 to John Wallis, one of his assistants, and retired in 1807 or 1808. The Gazette is thought to have ceased publication soon after he left Newark. A file complete enough to give exact dates of these changes could not be seen.

Daniel Dodge was printer and Aaron Pennington editor of the first volume. In October, 1797, it appeared under the auspices of Aaron Pennington and Daniel Dodge, publishers. On October 1, 1799, it passed into the hands of Jabez Parkhurst and Samuel Pennington. In the following January Parkhurst sold his share to Stephen Gould, who with Pennington conducted the paper until May, 1803, when he retired. In November Pennington also retired and the paper was continued by William Tuttle and John Pike. The latter retired the next year, and in August, 1804, William Tuttle & Co. became sole publishers and controlled it until it was sold to the proprietors of the Daily Advertiser.

"And those who come, because they love
The mouldering frame that lies below,
Shall find the anguish half removed
While that sweet spot shall soothe their woe.
The notes of happy birds alone
Shall there disturb the silent air,
And when the cheerful sun goes down
His beams shall linger longest there."

NOTE.—Founded by Conrad Hollinger, publisher of Die Nachbar. It appeared as a weekly, semiweekly and daily, and was successful until after Mr. Hollinger's death in 1870. In 1871 the paper was issued as a German-English paper, two pages in German, reading Der New Jersey Volksmann, and two pages in English, reading The People's Paper. It was printed only for a few months.

1856 to date Newark Common Council. Mayors' messages. 347

NOTE.—The following is a list of the Mayors of Newark since 1856, when the message of the mayor was, it is believed, printed separately for the first time. Horace J. Poinier, 1856; Moses Bigelow, 1857-63; Theodore Runyon, 1864-65; Thomas B. Peddie, 1866-69; Frederick W.

Ricord, 1870-73; Nehemiah Perry, 1874-75; Henry J. Yates, 1876-79; W. H. F. Fiedler, 1880-81; Henry Lang, 1882-83; J. E. Haynes, 1884-94; J. B. Lebkuecher, 1894-96; James M. Seymour, 1896-date. Instead of the "annual message" previously always issued in January, Mayor Haynes published in May, 1894, a "Statistical Report or Message," and Mayor Lebkuecher did the same in May 1896. Since 1894 the annual message has been issued in May.

- 1858 to date Newark Academy. Annual catalogue of the Newark Academy, and programme of the course of instruction. July, 1858. 16 p. O. Daily Advertiser Office. 378

NOTE.—Although the present organization of this school dates from 1792 and has pre-Revolutionary antecedents, yet the above is the earliest catalogue found. The school was incorporated in 1795 and rechartered in 1855. A Young Ladies' Department was added in 1802, which became in 1809 a separately conducted organization, and has been noted under date 1810. (See Appendix.) A circular of the school issued in 1844 has also been noted. (See Appendix.) In 1858 the Academy was moved to its present site, under the principalship of Dr. F. A. Adams, who issued the above catalogue. In 1859 Dr. S. A. Farrand became Headmaster, and his first catalogues were entitled "Annual Circulars," with catalogue and programme of instruction. The older title has since been reverted to; while a "Circular of Information" has since 1892 been issued in addition to the regular catalogue.

- *1865 Eccleston, John C. Jerusalem photographic album. 12 plates. F. Stoughtenborough & Rose. 447

NOTE.—There is no title page, but the cover bears the following, signed by Dr. Eccleston: "In the winter of 1859 the King of Prussia sent an artist to the Holy Land to procure accurate views for his portfolio. Having reached Jerusalem, whilst the Royal Commission was being executed, I was so fortunate as to secure (through the courtesy of Right Reverend Samuel Gobat, of the Anglican and Prussian mission) fine impressions from the most valuable of the negatives. The skill of the accomplished photographers, Messrs. Stoutenburg & Rose (of this city), having reproduced these views with remarkable accuracy, they are now published, at the request of many persons, in the belief that they will materially aid in forming a more definite conception of

" 'Those holy fields,
O'er whose acres walked those blessed feet,
Which fourteen hundred years ago were nail'd
For our advantage on the bitter cross,'

"The descriptions are for the most part the results of careful personal observation, compared on the spot with the best authorities.

NOTE.—The title of vol. 2 reads "The Northern Monthly, devoted to the vigorous discussion of topics of to-day." Intended to be a distinctively New Jersey magazine, it was started by Captain Bassett after receiving numerous pledges of support from the N. J. State Literary Union, the Washington Literary Union and other similar societies. Captain Bassett was assisted by Samuel H. Baldwin, Edward Lees Glen, the artist, and others. The pledges of support not materializing, the plant was moved from Academy and Broad streets, Newark, to 37 Park Row, New York, where, under the name of the Northern Monthly, the magazine gradually won its way to an almost paying basis, when Captain Bassett became seriously ill. Receiving an offer from the proprietors of the newly started Putnam's Magazine, he sold the subscription list and all rights; and the number for June, 1868, was the last issued, two numbers after the close of the second volume. The consolidation of the two periodicals is mentioned in Putnam's Magazine for July, 1868, p. 126.

NOTE.—The earliest known report is dated May 1, 1877. The file at the Hospital lacks reports for 1879, 1885 and 1887. Annual reports have been printed for every year from 1880, but prior to that date there is uncertainty. The Report for 1883 styles itself the 111th annual, indicating that the first was made in 1873. In 1877 the institution was entitled the "Essex County Lunatic Asylum;" in 1878 the "Essex County Home for the Insane." This was changed in 1880 to "Essex County Asylum for the Insane," and in 1895 to "Essex County Hospital for the Insane." On the opening of the branch hospital at Verona, the name was once more changed (in 1899) to "Essex County Hospitals for the Insane."
